

The input I put in was “create a food dish using p5.js” Here’s what it created:

//CHAT GPT FOOD DISH

I think the dish the AI created is haphazard and not very intentional. I do think that the parsley on top was interesting and unexpected but as a whole it doesn't look much like spaghetti. Granted, I think my tamale isn't perfect, and with more time and more knowledge I'd be able to make it better. I also think my plate has more dimension and so does my tamale. My colors are also a little more cohesive and I think it's more interesting with a blue background rather than a grey one. It did take a lot longer for me to make my food dish, but like I said before mine feels more intentional.